Tony Nioa – Deputy Chair

Disclaimer

1/ Tony Nioa does not speak for or on behalf of Rheinmetall Nioa and any of his comments, predictions or interpretations as part of this presentation are based upon his opinions and observations.

2/ Presenter Tony Nioa was NOT Deputy Chair of Regional Development Australia Wide Bay Burnett during advocacy for and granting of Commonwealth Funds to the joint venture Rheinmetall Nioa munitions forging plant. Mr Nioa was appointed to the committee of RDA Wide Bay Burnett after the facility was funded and committed for Maryborough.

The Project

- The facility produces artillery shell cases for the Aust Defence Force and Allied forces around the globe
- The facility will ensure that future munitions supplies are Australian- made and create Australian Industry Capability

- The facility will create 100 direct, highly-skilled manufacturing jobs and 300 in construction.
- Built on a greenfield site in Maryborough, QLD

Why Maryborough?

- Proud history of manufacturing from ship and train building to forging and heavy equipment for mining industry
- Greenfield site positioned beside national highway in established industrial park
- Three levels of govt support
- $29m grant from Commonwealth's Regional Growth Fund
- Existing manufacturing workforce

Why Governments invest in regional projects of significance

The Catalyst

- Maryborough Sugar Mill closed for the first time after 100 years, more than 75 jobs lost
- Majority of jobs immediately absorbed by munitions factory and existing manufacturing growth – e.g. train manufacture
- Program to reskill current workforce, built community confidence
- Project has attracted new innovation and industry creating more than 300 additional jobs including $100m battery manufacturing facility next door
- Utilised local content for construction creating additional jobs – Hyne Timber new product utilised for main office building
